Profile

Michael Sternberg's practice has covered the two main areas of family work - financial remedy and child cases. He built a substantial practice in high-value financial cases and over the decades was instructed by a number of the top London firms. He regards negotiation as of great importance in getting the best result in the speediest time at the lowest cost to the client. So many of his cases settled avoiding the costs and publicity of what would otherwise be high profile contests. The financial work has involved a high degree of expertise in company law and valuation, farming divorce cases, prenuptial agreements, tax law and cases where there is a conflict of jurisdiction. Because of the demands of his charitable interfaith work Michael is currently only accepting instructions in matters where advice is required and no longer in child cases.
