

Stephen Lyon

16th May 2018

Stephen Lyon, is quoted in the The Times today in respect of the Owens case in the Supreme Court.

“It’s a fact of life that couples fall out of love and relationships break down – having to scan back through a marriage and find examples of bad behaviour can exacerbate the divorce and turn an already hard time into a much more fraught one. It’s time our courts recognised that and hauled divorce law into the 21st century.”

