

Catherine Wood KC invited to participate in the Centre for Child and Family Law Reform's Costs Debate

11th February 2025

Catherine Wood KC has been invited to take part in the Centre for Child and Family Law Reform's Costs Debate on Thursday 6 March 2025.

This event will feature a series of quick-fire debates on costs in family law proceedings, co-chaired by Hannah Markham KC and William Longrigg, and will conclude with a discussion on costs led by Sir Philip Moor.

Drawing on her expertise as a specialist in private law children cases, including those with an international element, Catherine joins the opening debate, presenting her arguments against the proposition: "The time has come to make more costs orders in private Children Act proceedings."
